Full-day and half-day trainings are customizable to the client's needs and can include elements of consulting topics above as well as training topics below. In-person trainings are always interactve.

Webinars and conference sessions are available on the following topics:

- Overview of library-social work collaboration: What's involved? What are some different models of how it's done?
- Defining and building a relationship-based reference collection
- Staff preparation for onboarding social service providers
- Using a social justice lens for programming and problem-solving
- Applying one or more of these social work concepts to library practice:
    - Person-in-Environment
    - Cultural Humility
    - Reflective Practice/Reflective Supervision

Additional topics or innovative combinations of the services listed above are available on request.

Reflective supervision services are also available upon request at a consulting rate of $100/hour. Some examples include but are not limited to:

- Library social workers who want to discuss their experiences as a means of learning from and understanding library values and processes.
- Library leaders or other library staff who are starting or in the process implementing community engaged work to build a relationship-based reference collection.
- Library leaders who would like to engage in an ongoing process of acculturating library staff to collaborating with a social worker or social services, including defining roles, setting boundaries, and making adjustments through reflective practice.
