Training Services – Online Only During COVID-19

Prices are negotiable for small libraries or organizations; reach out for more information.

- $2500 full training series of 2, 2.5-hour interactive workshops on separate days
- $750-1500 partial training, typically 90 minutes to 2 hours, fees depend on length and interactivity
- $500 one-hour basic overview webinar or conference session
- Online course or series of virtual workshops: negotiable based on length and needs
- Keynote presentations negotiable based on length and conference scale

Within the scope of the above, training content is customizable to the client's needs.

Webinars and conference sessions are available on the following topics:

- History and How-to of Library-Social Work Collaboration: What's involved? What are some different models of how it's done? How can we begin to build towards a social work hire?
- Relationships Are the New Reference Collection™: Use a whole person, whole system approach to cultivate, curate, and connect your own collection of social service resources.
- Sustainable Practice with or without a Social Worker: Library staff members benefit from learning how to apply concepts from social work either 1) to better support and work alongside a staff social worker, and/or 2) provide holistic services without a social worker while maintaining good boundaries and avoiding burnout.
- Whole Person Library Management™: Staff members who provide excellent human service are best able to do that work when they receive the same consideration from management that they are expected to give to patrons. Learn to apply social work methods to supervision and management.

Additional topics or innovative combinations of the services listed above are available on request. The above topics interweave with one or more of the following social work concepts:

- Person-in-Environment
- Cultural Humility
- Social Justice and Advocacy
- Reflective Practice/Reflective Supervision

Reflective supervision services are also available upon request at a consulting rate of $100/hour. Some examples include but are not limited to:

- Library social workers who want to discuss their experiences as a means of learning from and understanding library values and processes.
- Library leaders or other library staff who are starting or in the process implementing community engaged work to build a relationship-based reference collection.
- Library leaders who would like to engage in an ongoing process of acculturating library staff to collaborating with a social worker or social services, including defining roles, setting boundaries, and making adjustments through reflective practice.
